ATTENTION EMPLOYEES!

School is back in session, which means more vehicles on the road and more traffic congestion on Southern California's already crowded freeways. What is a commuter to do? “Riding the Light Rail” is one way to beat the traffic.

There are five options available to “Ride the Light Rail” to work. Whether it's Downtown or across town, the Metro system includes the Green, Gold, Red, Blue and Purple rail lines to take you where you want to go. Service begins at 4:00 a.m. and continues past midnight.

You really can “Ride the Light Rail” to work. For example, if you commute from Long Beach, “Ride the Light Rail” (Blue Line). Are you traveling from San Bernardino to Downtown? Take a Metrolink train to Union Station and from Long Beach, “Ride the Light Rail” (Red Line) into the Civic Center.

“Ride the Light Rail” (Green Line) to commute between Norwalk and Redondo Beach or “Ride the Light Rail” (Gold Line) to travel between Pasadena and Downtown. The way to Hollywood is faster, and you'll save money if you “Ride the Light Rail” (Purple and Red Lines). With multiple options, commuters are able to do their part for cleaner air.

After all,

Clean Air is Everybody's Business!!
